Harry Ambrose, Helped Design Federal Buildings

Harry M. (Hez) Ambrose, 57, a Government architect for 31 years, died yesterday of cancer at his home, 1722 Nineteenth street N.W.

Most recently Mr. Ambrose had been working on the Central Intelligence Agency's new home, soon to be built in Langley, Va. He received a meritorious service award from the General Services Administration last September for coordinating the planning and development of the project.

He joined the Office of Public Buildings, parent of GSA's public building service, in 1927. Since then he had a hand in such projects as the National Institutes of Health and the Washington Hospital Center.

He was born in Logan, Ohio. In 1925 he received his degree in architecture from the University of Notre Dame.

He was a member of the Notre Dame Club of Washington, the University Club, Manor Country Club and Gyro International.

He leaves his wife Jean of the home address, and two sisters, Mrs. W. Terrance Bannon of Detroit, and Miss Jane Ambrose of Dearborn, Mich.

Prayers will be said at 5 p.m. tomorrow at Joseph Gawler's Sons Funeral Home, 1756 Pennsylvania avenue N.W. Funeral services and burial will be Thursday in Logan.
